The Kidderminster Civic Society have placed Blue Plaques all around the town of Kidderminster, indicating places of historical note and you may just stumble upon one.... if you are in the vicinity.

However, unless you walk round the town and know where to look, you will not find them and may miss something of real interest.

The idea of this project is to replicate these intriguing plaques and display them at the station, providing an ocean of colour on a dull wall as well as providing interesting information.

If you shop at 'Blink' opticians near to Matalan, you may just have seen this very important plaque!

This blank, and rather boring wall on Platform 2, looks to be the ideal size and place for commuters to do a spot of reading whilst waiting for a train.

Quick Response Code

Each plaque has a QR Code attached to it and so tempting the user of a SMART phone to capture the image to lead them to a web site for further information about the historical place.
